What drives crude oil prices?

An analysis of 7 factors that influence oil markets, with chart data updated monthly and quarterly
Crude oil prices react to a variety of geopolitical and economic events

- October 13, 2021
- Low spare capacity
- Iraq invades Kuwait
- Saudis abandon swing producer role
- Iran-Iraq War
- Iranian revolution
- Arab Oil Embargo
- Iraq invades Kuwait
- Asian financial crisis
- Global financial collapse
- OPEC production quota unchanged
- U.S. spare capacity exhausted
- 9-11 attacks
- OPEC cuts targets 1.7 mmbpd
- OPEC cuts targets 4.2 mmbpd
- Global pandemic reduces oil demand
- OPEC production quota unchanged

Sources: U.S. Energy Information Administration, Refinitiv An LSEG Business
World oil prices move together due to arbitrage

Sources: Bloomberg, Refinitiv An LSEG Business
Crude oil prices are the primary driver of petroleum product prices

Source: Short-Term Energy Outlook
Economic growth has a strong impact on oil consumption

% change (year-on-year)

Sources: U.S. Energy Information Administration, Oxford Economics
Changes in expectations of economic growth can affect oil prices

Note: Starting in January of each year, each line shows the expected forecast of GDP growth for the specified calendar year, which tends to move toward the actual realized growth outcome as the year progresses. Expectations continue to evolve into the next calendar year as revised GDP data become available (e.g., 2008 GDP expectations are revised even during 2009).

Source: Oxford Economics
In OECD countries, price increases have coincided with lower consumption.

Source: Short-Term Energy Outlook

October 13, 2021
Rising oil prices held down global oil consumption growth from 2005-2008, despite high economic growth

Source: Short-Term Energy Outlook

October 13, 2021
Changes in non-OPEC production can affect oil prices

Source: Short-Term Energy Outlook
Non-OPEC supply expectations indicate changes in market sentiment concerning oil supply.

Source: Short-Term Energy Outlook

Note: Starting in January of each year, each line shows the expected forecast of non-OPEC supply for the specified calendar year, which tends to move toward the actual realized supply outcome as the year progresses.
Changes in Saudi Arabia crude oil production can affect oil prices

Sources: U.S. Energy Information Administration, Refinitiv An LSEG Business

October 13, 2021
Unplanned supply disruptions tighten world oil markets and push prices higher

Sources: U.S. Energy Information Administration
During 2003-2008, OPEC’s spare production levels were low, limiting its ability to respond to demand and price increases.
The years 2003-2008 experienced periods of very strong economic and oil demand growth, slow supply growth and tight spare capacity.

Source: Short-Term Energy Outlook

$/b (real 2010 dollars)

% change (year-on-year)

Spare capacity < 2.5 million barrels per day

forecast

Source: Short-Term Energy Outlook
Inventory builds go hand-in-hand with increases in future oil prices relative to current prices (and vice versa).

Source: Short-Term Energy Outlook
Open interest in crude oil futures grew over the last decade as more participants entered the market.

Source: Bloomberg
Physical participants’ (producers, merchants, processors, and end users) U.S. futures market contract positions

Source: Commodity Futures Trading Commission, Commitments of Traders
Money managers tend to be net long in the U.S. oil futures market

Source: Commodity Futures Trading Commission, Commitments of Traders
Crude oil plays a major role in commodity investment

Source: Bloomberg
Commodity index investment flows have tended to move together with commodity prices.

Source: Bloomberg
Correlations (+ or -) between daily price changes of crude oil futures and other commodities generally rose in recent years.

Note: Correlations computed quarterly.
Correlations (+ or -) between daily returns on crude oil futures and financial investments have also strengthened.

Note: Correlations computed quarterly.
For more information

Short-Term Energy Outlook | www.eia.gov/steo
Annual Energy Outlook | www.eia.gov/aeo
International Energy Outlook | www.eia.gov/ieo
Monthly Energy Review | www.eia.gov/mer

EIA Information Center
(202) 586-8800  |  email: InfoCtr@eia.gov